

LEVEL I AND A

Which Word Is It?

This is a word making game.

Example: bl + ack = black

DIRECTIONS

Print and cut the cards. You can print the color card set or the black and white card set. They are identical. Print them out on thick paper or cardstock if you can.

SET-UP

Place your set up cards labeled A through H (A is the first card, H is the last card) face up in a vertical column in the center of the table. These cards are twice as wide as the rest.

Deal out the playing cards so each player has the same amount. You can leave the cards spread out, face up in front of each player.

Keep a score sheet with each person's name on it, where you can add up points.

PLAY

Each player in turn builds a word, by combining one of his cards with one on the table to make a word. A sample play would be to take the “own sp” 3 point card (seen in the photo) and try to make a word by adding the “sp” to the beginning of a word, to make a word like “sped” or to make a word with the ending “own” by adding it to a beginning blend like “cr”, to make the word “crown.”

Then, you add the points from the joined cards to get your points for that turn. In the example seen in the photo, this would be 7 points. The next player does the same thing, look for a word to make with one of their cards. Play continues until no more cards can be played to make words.

ENDING THE GAME

Once time is up, everyone has the same amount of turns or no more words can be made, the game ends. At this point, total up each players score and the highest score wins.
